Providing an environment that fosters the art and craft of woodturning
A Publication of the Peace River Woodturners

For this months cover picture I thought I'd show the members what Ted Beebe is keeping busy with way up in Maine this summer. As you can see, Ted also loves figuring out angles. Between Ted and Paul Bartlett, I'm sure if any angle questions arise, these are the guys to answer your questions.

Both Ted's and Pauls latest turning (or should I say twists) are definitely out of the box and are some of the finest examples of segmented work.

Don't forget to mark your Calendar for the Beth Ireland demonstration on November 16th.

Beth will be demonstrating types of Offset turnings.

Also set aside the date, February 10th because we will be hosting Keith Gotchall for another all day demonstration at the Cultural Center.

What our Members do:

Steve Duncan has hung up his lathe chisels and now has taken up painting.

Steve takes to painting like a duck takes to water. Steve's painting are as beautiful as his woodturnings. Check these out: WOW!!!
